Konstkampen!

About us

Rising Artists is a non-profit organization that runs art competitions with the aim of engaging children and young people in art, design and creative crafts.

In our previous competition, 105 schools and over 7000 participants took part. You can read more about them on our website (risingscholarssweden.org).

Rising Artists is a subsidiary organization of Rising Scholars Sweden - a non-profit organization that runs school competitions for young students.

ATTENTION! All the information in this information sheet, and more, can be found on our website.

What is Konstkampen?

Konstkampen is an art competition aimed at students in grades four to nine, and this year's theme is Self.

As an art or crafts teacher, you can register your class. It is meant to be easy to weave the assignment into the assessment material, and therefore you have the power to customize the assignment!

A brief description of under 70 words per class contribution is allowed to explain the connection to the theme. You can read more about this on our website.

Whose work should be submitted?

All artistic mediums are allowed, and two works per class are submitted. This is so that we can make referee work more efficient.

Where is the task carried out?

The task is carried out in the art and/or crafts lessons. If the students have already created something in art or crafts (which can be connected to the theme) they are welcome to submit the works!

Rising Artists

This is how the competition goes:

- 1 The students complete the task. The task must somehow be connected to the theme, but with each class contribution, it is good to have a short description of under 70 words about how the connection was made.
- 2 The teacher sends in artwork. The students compete against others in the same grade.
- 3 Prizes are awarded nationally for "Best work" in each grade. The prize is a trophy and a diploma. All other competing classes will receive a diploma. Judges will be revealed closer to the submission date. We are working hard to have a show somewhere with all competing classes represented!

Date to relate to:

The last date to register your classes: 31/01/2024

Last date to send in contributions: 05/03/2024
